If you were approved to receive more than double time on any of the examinations listed above, you will be automatically approved to receive double time on the LSAT. If you were approved to receive more than double time on one of the examinations listed above and request more than double time on the LSAT, or if you seek more additional time or more break time on the LSAT than you were approved to receive on another standardized test, your request will be evaluated in accordance with LSAC's standard policies and will be subject to LSAC's complete documentation requirements (i.e., a Candidate Form, Evaluator Form, and relevant Cognitive, Psychological, Vision or Physical Evaluation Report(s) and results of past standardized tests will need to be submitted by the registration deadline). For these requests, LSAC will be reviewing the documentation that you submit to determine appropriate accommodations based on the functional limitations described.

The following checklist has been prepared to assist you in submitting the required information to document your request for accommodations on the LSAT on the basis of prior receipt of testing accommodations on an eligible test. Incomplete documentation will delay processing of your request. Please note that additional documentation may be requested after LSAC's initial review is conducted.
