NEW! Audio Description Performances

Audio description can enhance the theatre experience for people who are blind or have low vision. The describer occasionally speaks “between the lines” to describe entrances, exits, and actions to people who cannot see them. Often, before the show and during intermission, a describer “sets up” for the performance by detailing the stage layout, props, characters, and costumes.

Note: This is a free service. Device reservations are first come, first served. To purchase tickets and reserve an audio description device, please call the box office at 860.987.5900.
