Many people with disabilities and older adults need someone to help them make decisions about their healthcare or their property. A power of attorney is a way to designate someone to assist with these important decisions. On July 23rd, lawyers from JPMorgan Chase and Equip for Equality will be helping people with disabilities and older adults execute powers of attorney for health care and for property for free. To make an appointment, contact Cristina Headley at cristina@equipforequality.org or 312-895-7257.
