

Do You Dream in Color?

Blind Teens Fight Challenges in New Documentary
National Federation of the Blind promotes Film to Increase Understanding Among Educators and Public

Blind people of all ages, their families, educators, and others who face discrimination based on low expectations will learn from these inspiring young people and their stories in Do You Dream in Color?, a new, critically acclaimed documentary.

The documentary depicts the problems that blind students experience in public schools and other challenges that they face due to low expectations and misconceptions about blindness. A discussion and time for audience questions will be answered by local blind individuals following the showing of the film. The National Federation of the Blind of New Mexico will give a presentation on resources available to families with blind youth.

A screening of the film, hosted by the National Federation of the Blind New Mexico, will be held April 20, 2018, 7:30pm at the Sheraton Albuquerque Uptown Hotel and is free to attend. For more information, feel free to contact, Adelmo Vigil at 575-921-5422.

Awards and Praise

- 2017 National Federation of the Blind Dr. Jacob Bolotin Award, Top Prize
- Official Selection, Dallas International Film Festival
- Audience Choice Award, San Luis Obispo International Film Festival
- Advocacy Award, Superfest: International Disability Film Festival
- "powerfully human" -- Truth on Cinema
- "a film that will touch your head and your heart" -- Unseen Films

"Watching this film made me more determined to fight for blind kids, like my own, against a public education system that too often fails them," said Mark A. Riccobono, President of the National Federation of the Blind.