

University of Washington Disability Studies Program presents

Eugenics and Disability: History and Legacy in Washington

Friday, October 9, 2009
9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

University of Washington
Tower Auditorium
4333 Brooklyn Avenue NE
Seattle, Washington 98195

This event is free and open to the public

eu·gen·ics (yōō-jěn'īks)

noun. the science of using controlled human breeding to increase the occurrence of desirable heritable traits. Origin 1883, from Greek “well-born.”

Registration is required

To register go to <http://eugenics.washington.edu/>

For more information contact Tammi Olson,
tammio@uw.edu | 425-774-4446 (voice)
425-774-9303 (fax) | 425-771-7438 (TTY)

One-day Symposium

In 1909, Washington became the second state to enact a law for the forced sterilization of people considered to be biologically inferior.

This event will provide a forum for public dialogue about Washington's eugenic past and its current implications.

For more information contact
Joanne Woiak, jwoiak@uw.edu

To view the live webcast go to <http://UWTV.org>

9 to 11:30 a.m.

Disability in the History of Eugenics

12:30 to 3 p.m.

Perspectives on the Relevance of Eugenics Today

Free lunch for registered attendees

To request disability accommodation, contact the UW Disability Services Office:
206-543-6450 (voice), 206-543-6452 (TTY),
206-685-7264 (fax), or email dso@uw.edu.

Sponsored by: UW Center for Genomics and Healthcare Equality; DBTAC Northwest ADA Information Center; UW Office of the Provost; and Seattle Children's Treuman Katz Center for Pediatric Bioethics.

Support from these UW programs: Boeing Professorship in Computer Science and Engineering; Bothell Interdisciplinary Arts & Sciences; Center for Technology and Disability Studies; Center for the Study of the Pacific Northwest; Center on Human Development and Disability; Comparative History of Ideas Program; Department of Genome Sciences; Diversity Research Institute; Haring Center for Applied Research and Training in Education; Office of Minority Affairs and Diversity; Program on Values in Society.